

The Motion of Ions and Electrons

By convention, voltaic cells, such as this Daniell cell, are usually drawn with the anode, where oxidation occurs, on the left and the cathode, where reduction occurs, on the right.