

The Neural Pathway of the Optic Nerve

The neural pathway of the optic nerve from the retina to the occipital lobe. Data from the right half of each retina go to the right side of the occipital lobe, and data from the left half of each retina go to the left side of the occipital lobe. Integration of the image occurs in the brain.