

Compare the Human and Frog Circulatory System

This organizer compares the circulatory system of a frog and a human being.

- Complete the organizer. Give two similarities and two differences.
- Then, use the information in the organizer to help you complete the paragraph that follows.

The circulatory systems of frogs and humans have many similarities. They both have the following organs: _____, _____, and _____. They both get oxygen-rich blood from the _____. However, there are some differences between frog and human circulatory systems. Frog hearts have _____ chambers, while human hearts have _____ chambers. Frogs get oxygen-rich blood from the lungs and the _____, while humans get oxygen only from the _____.